

Lyrics by James Moore, Music by Luke Shiels and Killian Taylor

The earth is so alive inside its always movin
'Neath the sound of the sea always rockin always groovin
Inside of me is the need to be improvin
Gonna find out more gonna listen for a moment

Now here I am on the bottom of the sea
A yellow submarine and its not just me
I've got friends down here listening just like me
Listening to the waves beneath the waves beneath the sea

Let me introduce you
There's Grainne Gill and Quakey
Tom Allod and Maude
Brian Wilson Eve Sebastian
Charles Nemo and the Dude
Harry Loch Ness mometer
Ligea Luigi and Nemor
All listening for vibrations from the ocean floor
I love my mother Earth she means the world to me
I can feel the beat of her heart like it beats inside of me
I'll draw you a map
Some Seismography

Tell me where we're going tell me where we've been Tell me if Atlantis was nothing but a dream
Why Iceland has the hot springs
If the winters will get much colder

Are the shelves stacked
Are the plates all cracked
Can Boston get much closer

Shout out to Wilson
That boy's picking up traces of Act-ivity
Could tell us about the Eathquakes and their buddy Tsu-nami
Yo Wilson
He's watchin out for me he's watchin out for us
He don't need no praise he don't make no fuss
He's sittin there in the dark in our dawn to dusk on the bottom of the sea
He don't ask for much
Just a little battery power and a song from us

I love my mother Earth
She means the world to me
